A Multiple Phoenix

EG8, No. 289: K. Sczala. This study, White: Kh8, Pg6, Ph7 - Black: Kf6, Sh4, Pg3, was intended to be drawn by 1. g7 g2 2. Kg8 g1Q 3. h8Q Qg5 4. Qh7 Sg6 5. Qh6 Qd5† 6. Kh7 Qf7 7. Qg5† Kxg5 stalemate, but WDE found that 3. ... Sf5 wins for Black by means of an interesting regrouping. Reversing the colours led to A1, solved by 1. Sh5 g2 2. g7 Kg1 (2. ... g1Q 3. Sg3† Qxg3† 4. Kxg3 Kg1 5. g8Q h1Q 6. Qa2) 3. g8Q (or first Sf4) h1Q 4. Sf4 Qh2 5. Qd5 (5. Qg4? Kh1=) Kh1 (5. ... Qh4 6. Se2† Kh2 7. Qd6† Kh1 8. Qd1†) 6. Kg4 Qg1 7. Se2 Qh2 8. Sg3† wins. 1. Sf5? only draws as intended in No. 289.

Win 3
1. as set
2. move Sg7 to d6
3. add bPc5 to 2.

Solutions: A2. 1. Se4 (Again not 1. Sf5 of course) g2 2. g7 Kg1 3. g8Q h1Q 4. Qg4 Qh2 (4. ... Kh2 5. Qg3† Kg1 6. Sf6; or 4. ... Kf1 5. Sg3† Kel 6. Qb4† Kd1 7. Qb1†) 5. Sf2 (not Sg3) Kf1 6. Qc4† and 7. Qc1 mate.
A3. 1. Sf5 (Not now 1. Se4 g2 2. g7 Kg1 3. g8Q h1Q 4. Qg4 Kf1! 5. Sg3† Kel=, 6. Qb4† being impracticable) g2 2. g7 Kg1 3. g8Q h1Q 4. Qg4 Qh2 (4. ... Kh2 5. Qg3† Kg1 6. Sh4 c4 7. Ke2; or 4. ... Kf1 5. Qc4† Kg1 6. Qxc5† Kh7 7. Qe5† Kg1 8. Qe1† Kh7 9. Qg3† Kg1 10. Sh4) 5. Sg3 Qh8 6. Se2† Kf1 7. Qxg2† Kel 8. Qg1† Kd2 9. Qc1† Kd3 10. Sf4† Kd4 11. Qb2(a1)† winning.

By coincidence Mr. Vandiest had also been attracted by No. 289 at about the same time and had evolved twin studies from it. One of these was affected by WDE's discovery, but moving wS from f6 to d6 fortunately put this right to produce A2 and A3. Mr. Vandiest readily agreed to the suggestion that the triplets be united.

B. J. Vandiest 4

Win 3
 1. as set
 2. move Sf6 to e5 and remove bSf3

Seeing further possibilities, Mr. Vandiest then composed the more elaborate B1, solved by 1. Sh5 with three lines of play:
 a) 1. .. g2 2. Kxf3 etc. as in A1. b) 1. .. Sg5† 2. Ke3 g2 (2. .. Kg2 3. Sxg3 Kxg3 4. g8Q h1Q 5. Qxg5† Kh3 6. Qh5† Kg2 7. Qg4† Kh2 8. Kf2) 3. Sg3† Kg1 4. g8Q h1Q 5. Se2† Kf1 (5. .. Kh2 6. Qb8†) 6. Qf8† Sf3 7. Qxf3† Ke1 8. Qf2† Kd1 9. Sc3† and 10. Qd2 mate. c) 1. .. Sd2† 2. Kf4 g2 3. Sg3† (3. g8Q? g1Q=) Kg1 4. g8Q winning, e.g. 4. .. Sfl 5. Se2† Kf2 6. Qa2 and threat of Sd5 wins, or 5. .. Kh1 6. Qd5 etc.; or 4. .. Kf2 5. Qa2 etc.; or 4. .. h1Q 5. Sxh1 Kxh1 6. Qh7† Kg1 7. Kg3 Sf3† 8. Kh3. Unsuccessful tries are: 1. Kxf3? Kg1=; 1. g8Q? g2=; 1. Sg4? Kg1 2. Sxh2 Sg5†=.

Finally, B2 gives independent existence to a dual which at one time bedevilled B. The win now is: 1. Sg4 g2 2. Sf2† Kg1 3. g8Q Kxf2 4. Qa2† (4. Qf8†? Kg1=) Kg1 (4. .. Kg3 5. Qa3† Kh4 6. Qe7† Kh3 7. Kf3 g1S† 8. Kf2) 5. Qa(b)1† Kf2 6. Qb2† Kg1 7. Qc1† Kf2 8. Qe3† Kf1 9. Kf3 g1S† 10. Kg3 h1S† 11. Kh2 Sf2 12. Qc1†.

So Sczala's No. 289 has already far surpassed the legendary phoenix; from its ashes have arisen not one but five new studies!

EG 17, No. 911: V. Kalandadze. The study is correct (see EG 18, p. 35), for after 1. .. Kc5 2. Sb3† wins easily. My worst mistake yet, I expect, and many thanks to the composer writing to point it out. (WV)

3. Kh1 Rc5 when W wins neatly by 4. Re2 Kh5 5. Re6 (not 4. Rh7† Rh5 5. Rb7 Rf5=).

No. 926: F. S. Bondarenko & Al. P. Kuznetsov. This improvement on
No. 266 in EG8 is still unsatisfactory as after 2. ..Ba8 W has the dual draw of 3. Bg1 Kc6 4. Bh2=. This is the manoeuvre mentioned in Note (i) where however 2. f8Q is much stronger still.

No. 929: V. Neidze & V. Kalandadze. To avoid a dual, better 6. ..Kf8 immediately. 6. ..Kg6 instead also allows 7. f8S† Qxf8 8. Qh5† Kf6
9. Qxh8† Ke7 10. Qe5† etc., or 6. ..Kh6 7. f8Q† etc.
No. 930: J. Koch. The final position is not stalemate. B1 mates in 3 by 4. ..Kc8 and 5. ..Qa5. One assumes that a bBc8 has been omitted.
Cn the other hand bPb7 is superfluous.

No. 938: P. Joita. I shall try and understand this study some day!
(WV).

P. 42, 'S. Kozlowski', in the third line from the bottom the bracket should read "(K7 and K20)", not "(K20 and K21)".

P. 59 V: A. P. Kazantsev. No win. 2. ..Kxh7 (instead of 2. ..Qd4)
3. Rg5 Qh1 4. bxc3 d4!=. 23 years lie between studies V and XV, which suggests that Kazantsev worked even longer on this theme than indicated in the comment on the latter. (Yes. 25 years, not 15.

Obituary Paul Heuäcker, probably the best known study composer from Germany since the days of Kling and Horwitz (most of whose composing took place in England) died on 10.vii.69, I learn with great regret from Schach-Echo of vii(2).69. He was born in 1899 and his total of studies was well over 100. On p. 66 are two examples, taken from Dr. Staudte's Aus der Welt der Schachstudie, of unexpected moves in simple looking positions.

SOME LESSER KNOWN KASPARYAN STUDIES
 Presented to The Chess Endgame Study Circle on 16.i.70 in honour of the composer's sixtieth birthday
 by A. J. Roycroft

Genrikh Moiseievich Kasparyan was born on 27.ii.10 and appears to have lived most of his life in Tbilisi and Erevan, major towns in the southernmost republic of the U.S.S.R., Armenia, bordering on Turkey and Iran. He has composed about 300 studies, of which some 10 % have won First prizes, not to count the many other prizes, honourable mentions and commendeds in awards. Beyond these bare facts it is extraordinarily difficult to say anything about Kasparyan that does not sound trite. 'He is unquestionably the greatest living study composer, and ranks at least equal with the most stylish and deep of past composers, such as Réti, Mattison and Liburkin, all of whom in any case he exceeds in quantities of studies produced.' 'His soundness is nearly absolute, as one would expect from a master player who has participated in several U.S.S.R. Championship finals and semi-finals.' If these statements are true, they tell far less than the studies themselves. Can something more constructive be deduced from playing his compositions through? Hardly - at least I find the task beyond me. He has himself written about aspects of composing with great authority and clarity. One may observe that he has, for instance, 'refined the mating study to a new standard of excellence,' or that 'his technique is such that he can conceal imaginative ideas behind quite normal looking settings,' or that 'he has mastered as no other the art of non-capture play.' As regards predilections, one may note a slight preponderance of minor piece studies and Zugzwangs, but there are no holes in his armoury - even to think of such a thing seems absurd! No. These eulogies are shallow and soon become tiresome. There is no alternative to the studies themselves. I have brought along 24, of which only one is taken from the collection of 150 published in 1959 with an introduction by Botvinnik. They are given in chronological order. The analytic notes are nearly all those of the composer, but some of the comments may well be mine. Let us play through as many as we can until we are exhausted!

The preceding play is quite difficult and deep, with its own attractive points, but unless there is a climax, then the study lacks something. The climax could be a complex manoeuvre, but here it is effectively a single move. Black queens with check, and the queen can be taken by an undefended rook. Surely there is no choice? But the actual move, not capturing the queen, is so stunning that the balance with the lead-in play is perfect.

K15. Black has two (defensive) threats, 1. .. Re8 and 1. .. f5 2. g7 Rg6. To meet these White plays 1. Ba7† Ke3 2. Bd5/i Re8† 3. Kb7 Re7† 4. Kc6 Rg7 5. Bf7/ii Ke4 6. Bd2 Kf5 7. Kd5 Rxc6 8. Be6 mate. A model mate from a most natural setting, but the fact that White has threats (Bh6 or a tempo move Bc1 or Bd3) after 8. Kd5 where mere Zugzwang would do, suggests that more might be made of this.
i) To go to f7 and then play g6-g7. This accounts for Black's defence.

AT WORK WITH THE J. R. HARMAN INDEX

To spend a weekend at the home of Mr & Mrs Harman is not simply to have the pleasure of unbounded hospitality. It affords a memorable occasion. The following notes are the spontaneous expression of a revelation.

My misfortune in missing John Harman's talk to the CESC on "The Classification of Endgame Studies", reported in EG 7, has been turned to great advantage by the privilege of an invitation to go to see for myself how the index works.

For those uninitiated I will recount that John Harman, having retired after a career in the Patent Office where no doubt his methodical ways were developed, offered in the cause of the endgame to undertake the daunting task of forming a content-classified index of all known studies. So far as was known, or is known, no other such undertaking exists. There were those who thought the task insuperable.

Today after more than four years of patient unremitting application the filing cabinets in the room where he works cover one of the walls to the extent of three men standing side by side. In every one of the forty eight cabinets are cards, each with a diagram, solution and notes and bearing coded tags of many colours. They lie closely packed together, mute symbols of the work of composers past and present the world over. Every definable area of composition has a section to itself, and if their compositions have a factor in common the names of the little known are juxtaposed with the immortals.

Little by little additions are made. Daily the total swells as John works his way through publications of ever increasing rarity. He is as remorselessly absorbing the past as he is keeping up to date with the present. If a source is not immediately available he will go out in search of it. And the cost of all materials, which is considerable, he bears himself. The work itself he finds agreeable. His is the zeal of a man with a mission. Here is a true enthusiast. Here all is order and method such as would delight the heart of Hercule Poirot. Here being performed on a small table in one room is classification as painstaking as the tabulation of finger prints at Scotland Yard.

But the test of a system is the efficiency with which it functions. The compiler took from my proffered bunch of originals a random sample to test for anticipation. Murmuring some mystic numbers he pulled out a drawer. His fingers, every one of them an index finger, flashed deftly over the cards with their coloured emblems and within seconds he laid before me seven studies representing five different composers spanning a period of forty-four years. Here was the computer personified. He then gave me an appraisal of the degree of anticipation, pronounced a verdict of absolution and demanded further samples. We discussed the anticipation element at length, agreeing that it is almost always present in some part of every study if not in the main concept, and that it was generally all a matter of degree. Related themes and case histories from the files - all were discussed. He seemed on intimate terms with every card he touched and I marvelled as one does on observing the performance of an expert at work.

Let no one doubt the efficacy of the confidential service John Harman provides. It is offered gratis to anybody anywhere who wishes to avail himself of information relating to matters of precedent in composition. John Harman's work has not yet received the recognition that it deserves. He will not expect our acclaim, nor would he wish to have it, but I cannot let this occasion pass without expressing my admiration for an achievement on an international scale of something which is unique. He has created an institution.

DIAGRAMS AND SOLUTIONS

The Championship of Scandinavian Chess Composers, usually dominated by Finland, with Sweden second, had in 1967 one of its four sections devoted to studies. The theme demanded 'Symmetrical Starting Positions with Asymmetrical Solution'. The judge was Dr. H. Staudte, whose award in Stella Polaris March 1968 was confirmed in the December 1968 issue. Finland also won this section; of the 10 places Sweden took Nos. 3 and 8, Norway No. 6, Denmark No. 7, Finland won the other 6. The remarks quoted below are from the award.

An earlier article by A. Hildebrand in Stella Polaris 1/67 also dealt with the subject of symmetrical studies with asymmetrical solution. There are plenty such problems, he wrote, but very few such studies. As it is the modern idea to have "studies with a thematic try", more of the kind might be expected, for the very structure of asymmetry embodies a thematic try. Of 11 samples given, 3 seem to be hopelessly cooked, the rest follows.

No. 950: H. Hultberg. 1. exf5 wins. Not 1 exd5? Kxe2 2. d6 f4 3. d7 f3 4. d8Q f2=. (The position quoted in SP has wP (e2) at e3 and bK at e2, but then after 4. . . f2 5. Qd1 wins.) Even simpler, same author and source, W: Ke8, Pe3 B: Ke1 Pd4 Pf4. White draws by 1. exf4.

No. 951: N. D. Grigoriev I: 1. Kg4/i Kg6 2. f4 f6 3. f5† Kf7/ii 4. Kf4 (3) Ke7 5. Kf3 (4) and B can no longer stop wK from penetrating either via e4 or g4. i) 1. Ke4? Ke6 2. f4 f6 3. f5† Kd6 4. f3 Kc6 (5) = ii) 3. . . Kh6 4. f3 Kg7 5. Kf4 Kf7 6. Ke4 wins. II: Here the symmetry does not exist initially but arises during the solution. 1. f4 Kf6 2. Kf3 Kf5 3. Kg3! Kg6 4. Kg4 etc. as in I.

No. 952: H. A. Adamson. The original study (2nd/3rd Prize, Chess Amateur 1924) had wK at e4 and bK at e1. The solution: 1. h4 etc. on the lines of the following. The try 1. b4 Kd2 2. Kd5 Kc3 3. b5 Kb4 4. Kc6 g5 5. Kxc7 Kxb5 6. Kd6 Kb6 only draws as bK reaches f8 which is enough against a RP. However W can improve by 2. Kd4 g5 (If 2. . . Kc2 3. h4 and bK will no longer reach f8. If 2. . . Ke2 3. b5) 3. b5 g4 4. Ke4 Kc3 5. Kf4 Kb4 6. Kxg4 Kxb5 7. h4 c5 8. h5 c4 9. Kf4 (The snag, wK is in the square.) c3 10. Ke3 Kc4 11. h6 Kb3 12. h7 c2 13. Kd2 Kb2 14. h8Q check.

The amended setting after 1. b4 allows 1. . . Kd3 preventing 2. Kd4. As a bonus the new symmetric try 1. Ke6? is defeated asymmetrically by 1. . . Kd3 Not 1. . . Kf3? 2. b4 Kg2 (. . . Kg4 - h3 is too slow) 3. h4 Kh3 4. h5 Kh4 5. Kd7 Kxh5 6. Kxc7 g5. Both sides queen, but 11. Qh8† wins, an added feature.

No. 953: A. Hildebrand. 1. Bc8 (1. Be8?) The wK needs h7.

No. 954: A. Hildebrand. Initially diagonal asymmetry: 1. Ka4 Kc6 2. Ka5 Kb7 3. Kb5 Ka7 4. Kc6 Ka6 5. b5† a7 6. Kc7 Ka8 7. Kb6 Kb8; now vertical asymmetry, well-known of course, 8. Ka6 (not 8. Kc6?) winning. Mr. Hildebrand adds: Primitive, but as far as we know, the only example of double asymmetry in a study.

The last study quoted is E. Pogosjants, No. 867 in EG 17, where asymmetry again arises during the solution, i.e. on the 10th move. Not quoted is A. S. Selesniev, see p. 82 of EG 4, in many ways the best of the kind (W: Ke5 Be6; B: Ke3 Pb4 Ph4; Drawn by 1. Kd6 Kd4 2. Kc6 Kc3 3. Kd5 b3 4. Ke4 b2 5. Ba2=).

No. 955: C. M. Bent. A recent other example with asymmetry during the solution. 1 Bg3† Kh3 2. Kxh7 Rd3/i 3. Kxg6 Rxc3 4. fxc3 Kxc3 5. Kf5 wins. Not 5. Kh5? Kh3 6. g6 g3 7. g7 g2 8. g8Q g1Q 9. Qxc3 stalemate. i) 2. . . Kg2 3. Kxg6 Rd2 (f8) 4. Kh5 etc. wins.

It will be appreciated that in all these positions symmetry is, and must be, merely visual. With perfect symmetry there could be no asymmetrical solution, there must be an eccentric factor on which the latter is based. In all but two of the studies above this factor is the limited space that there is to the one side as compared to the other. The peculiarities of the pawns, that they move forward and not sideways and promote etc., motivate the diagonal asymmetry in the Hildebrand study and the Hannelius study. Castling short (0-0) can also readily be made the factor; castling long (0-0-0), possibly not, nor en passant captures. This, I expect, exhausts the possible factors on which asymmetry can be based. (WV)

No. 956: H. A. Adamson. This well-known position was also quoted in SP. The intended solution is 1. Sd5 Sd7 2. Kd6 Kd8 3. Bd3 Kc8 4. Se7† Kd8 5. Sc6† Kc8 6. Ba6 mate. 1. Sf5 should fail because the final mate is not available - see EG4, p. 80, where the comment was made that the study might be defective as it is not in Chéron. In SP 3/67 P. Perkonoja recalls the flaw: A. Fred showed that 1. Sf5 also wins after all. 1. Sf5 Sf7 2. Kf6 Kf8 (2. . . Sd8 3. Bb5† Kf8 4. Sd6 wins) 3. Bf3 Ke8 4. Ec6† Kf8 5. Ba8 (Deliberate loss of a move!) Ke8 6. Sg7† Kf8 7. Se6† Kg8 8. Bf3! Sd6/i 9. Bd5! Sc8/ii 10. Sc7† Kh8 (10. . . Kf8? 11. Bf7) 11. Bb3! Sa7/iii 12. Ba4 Sc8 13. Ke6 Sb6 14. Bb3 Kg7 15. Sb5 Kf8 16. Sd6 Kg7 17. Ke7 Kg6 18. Kd8 Kf6 19. Kc7 Ke7 20. Sf5† Kf6 21. Se3 Sa8† 22. Kb7 wins. i) 8. . . Sh6 9. Bh5 Kh8 10. Sg5 Sg8† 11. Kf7 Sh6† 12. Kg6 Sg8 13. Sf7 mate. ii) 9. . . Se8† 10. Ke7 Sg7 11. Sd8† Kh7 12. Be4† Kh6 13. Kf8 Sh5 14. Sf7 mate. iii) 11. . . Sd6 12. Ke5 Sb7 13. Se6 and 14. Bd5 after which bS is caught.

T. R. Dawson's familiar position (W:Ke1, Re4, Pc6, Pf6; B:Kd8, Rd5, Pc7, Pf7), also quoted in the EG 4 article (p. 84), is most unfortunately also flawed. In the solution, 1. Ra4 Ke8 2. Rh4 Re5† 3. Kd2 Kd8 4. Ra4 Rd5† 5. Ke3 Ke8, the final 6. Rh4 Re5† 7. Kd4 follows so naturally that one may nearly wonder whether any other move need be regarded as a serious dual. Nevertheless 6. Kf4 also wins. The threat is 7. Ra8† Rd8 8. Rxd8† and 9. Kg5 etc., so 6. . . Rd8 7. Ra7 Rc8 8. Ke5 (Zugzwang). If 8. . . Kd8 9. Ra1 Rb8 10. Rh1 Rb5† 11. Kd4 Rb4† 12. Kc5 Re4 13. Rh8† Re8 14. Rxe8† Kxe8 15. Kb5 wins; and if 8. . . Kf8 9. Rxc7 Rxc7 10. Kd6 Re8 11. Kd7 Ra8 12. c7 Kg8 13. c8Q† Rxc8 14. Kxc8 Kh7 15. Kd8 Kh6 16. Ke8 Kg6 17. Ke7. (WV)

AWARD in LOMMER JUBILEE TOURNEY

It is a great pleasure to note that Harold Lommer, in honour of whose 65th birthday in xi.69 this tourney was announced, is composing as actively as ever, even if some of his activity has been recently devoted to series helpmates rather than to studies! (The series helpmate is a fairy chess genre in which Black makes every move except the last, with which White delivers the mate.)

The quality of the entries was in general not high, unfortunately, and the quantity, 16 (from 9 composers), was also disappointing. This may be partly because it is only the second tourney that E G has announced, but other contributory factors may well have been the number of other tourneys being run concurrently, and the fact that the announcement in E G 15 was of unusual length, this being due to the set theme of 'Repetition'.

The judge has to thank the following for their invaluable assistance. J. R. Harman, for vetting the entries for anticipations, and for a generous contribution towards the prize fund.

P. Perkonoja, for testing.

P. S. Valois, for receiving, recording, transcribing and rendering anonymous.

1st Prize. No. 957: A. Hildebrand (Uppsala, Sweden). A beautifully simple-looking display of counter-punching by the white rook, once with a left hook to a3, and once with a right hook to h3, the alternative in either case being neatly blocked.

2nd Prize. No. 958: V. A. Bron. (Sverdlovsk, U.S.S.R.). The repetition mechanism may have a familiar air, but no close anticipations have been identified. The introductory exchanging combination is not very attractive, but the repetition theme of the drawing play is emphatic; one might tell the time from the final quivering quartz crystal clock.

3rd Prize. No. 959: Prof. L. Kopac (Liberec, Czechoslovakia). The gross blemish to be compensated for is the promoted white bishop on g4, but this compensation does exist. It is a gyroscope, or an orbiting satellite. The black king blasts off in the Northern Hemisphere but, in trying to elude the Earth's attraction, he is shunted by two booster rocket discovered checks into a parallel orbit in the Southern Hemisphere!

1st Hon. Mention. No. 960: E. Oñate (Valencia, Spain). Enviably complex manoeuvres in main play and tries. A simpler setting, with in this judge's opinion, richer play, is to be found in K. Raina's 1st Prize in the Rumanian Championship, 1950 (No. 244 in Bondarenko's 'Gallery').

2nd Hon. Mention. No. 961: A. J. Sobey (Hindhead, England). Multiple sacrifices to secure queening of the white pawn. There are partial anticipations by Weenink, 1917 (No. 649 in '1234'), Halberstadt, 1938 (No. 50 in Chéron) and Prokes, 1948 (No. 198 in his 'Kniha').

Commendeds: No. 962: C. M. Bent (Newbury, England), and No. 963: L. Kopac.

Since the studies have already been vetted for soundness and anticipations, the confirmation time for the award will be short. Claims and comments must reach the judge by i.v.70 to have any effect.

F.I.D.E. Album 1965-1967

E.G.-readers will be aware that the 'tourney' for selection for a FIDE Album relates only to published work, not to originals. There are two judges for each section, and a third to decide when the first two do not agree on the selection. A key factor is the size of the volume, which, printed in Yugoslavia, is not under the control of the FIDE directly. 111, or 16.6% of the 665 study section entries (from 19 countries and by 133 composers) are to be selected. Over half the submissions in the study section are from the U.S.S.R. The object is to select the best. The study judges are Dr G. Grzeban (Poland) and A. J. Roycroft (England), with Walter Korn (U.S.A.) as referee judge and Harold Lommer as Director.

AJR

Leonard Barden in his column in The Guardian of 21.xi.69 described EG as 'the lively quarterly magazine which is probably the best available source of endgame analysis in the world.'

No. 1005: E. L. Pogosjants. 1. Kd3† Kb1 2. Ba2† Kxa1 3. Kxc2 b3†/i 4. Kd2 ba 5. g7 and wins the standard Q v Q ending.

i) It seems to me that this, in itself quite simple move, somehow typifies Pogosjants' sharp style. Everything is en prise and in an elementary position originality yet shows through. (AJR)

No. 1006: V. Obratsov. 1. f8Q Sxf8 2. Be8† Sg6 3. Bd7 Qc4 4. d4 Sf4 5. Be8† Sg6 6. Bd2 Qa6 7. de f2 8. Bb5 f1Q 9. Bxf1 wins.

Obituary Frank Grimoldby, in ii.69, aged 87. EG subscriber from the beginning.

Eustachy Wolanski, Polish problemist, died aged 65. He composed a few studies, including two First Prizes in "Revista de Sah" before the Second World War. (See No. 1233 in '1234').

Obtaining Secondhand Books

1. V. A. Bron's 1969 'Selected Studies and Problems' is available from AJR at 7s6d. each. Only three copies left.
2. The 1948 Finnish collection '111 Suomalaista Lopputehtävää' is available from British Chess Magazine, 9 Market Street, St. Leonards-on-Sea, Sussex.
3. 'CHESS' (Sutton Coldfield, England) runs postal auctions, with reserve prices and suggested minimum offers. Endgame study books are occasionally available. Titles are advertised on the cover pages of 'CHESS'. For postwar literature the 'minimum offer' suggested prices are very inflated, but for older books they are reasonable. For example, p.v. of the ii.70 issue (597-8) suggests 52s.6d. for Kasparyan's 1959 'Selected Studies and Games'. This is at least twice the price available from other sources (see 4).
4. Monsieur Julien Guisle runs a bookshop specialising in chess, situated by the church of St. Severin, just to the east of the Seine end of the Boulevard St. Michel (13 Rue Saint-Jacques, Paris V) for anyone with the time to spare in the French capital. It is very good indeed.
5. As good as the Librairie Guisle, but a little less accessible, is the 'Skakhuset' of Captain Albert Neess in Copenhagen (Studiestraede 24, 1455 Copenhagen K, Denmark).
6. There is, I am sure, no equivalent in the British Isles for 4 and 5 above.

AJR

Informal tourney of Tidskrift för Schack, entries in duplicate to Eric Uhlin, Ivar Claessons gata 7A, 44200 Kungälv, Sweden.

German Democratic Republic (DDR). This country is even less study-conscious than the German Federal Republic. Therefore it is very encouraging that the governing DDR chess organisation has announced a tourney, apparently a formal one. Originale should be sent to

Turnierleiter Kurt Galke, 87 Löbau, Innere Zittauer Strasse 18, German Democratic Republic - DDR
Closing date: 30.vi.70.
Judge: Hans Vetter.

Entries marked 'Section 6 - Studies', on diagrams with the numbers of the pieces noted.

The judge has been giving examples of studies in his column in Schach for over a year following the establishment of an exchange arrangement with EG. The result has been a small number of East German originals, which it is hoped this present tourney will improve on.

The Chess Endgame Study Circle.
Annual subscription due each July (month vii): £ 1 (or $3.00), includes
