S P O T L I G H Tdirected by Walter Veitch

(We hope that W. D. Ellison will soon find the time to return.)

EG 17, No. 872: P. Perkonoja. We regret having missed that this study was eliminated from the final award, J. Koppelmäki having shown a dual draw by 5. Bc7 (threatening Ba5) d5 6. d4! Bxd4 (6. .. Se4 7. Ba5) 7. Ba5 Sxa2† 8. Kb1 Sc3† 9. Kb2 Sb5† 10. Ka2=. Therefore No. 873 took 2nd Prize (but see next item) and No. 874 3rd Prize. (Pointed out by Mr. Rombach.)

No. 873: B. V. Badaj. Black wins after 3. .. Kf6. No doubt this was intended to fail to 4. Rd1 Bf1 5. Bh3 which seems to have blinded all but Mr. Harry Rombach of Toronto to the winning mating threats of 4. .. Kg6 5. Kg8 Be7 6. Be6 Bf1.

EG 19, No. 957: A. Hildebrand. In the diagram a bP is missing on c3.

No. 964: W. Veitch. Having unfortunately become associated with this Special Theme, I wish to record that I consider the theme abhorrent and that neither my position nor the theme example in EG 15 fulfil the precise conditions because of alternative wins for Black. I leave it at that.

No. 967: F. ben Galuth. Faulty, as the line given becomes a win for White after 5. .. Ka4? when 6. Kc4 mates in 5. The threat is Re6 and Sa1, and if 6. .. a1Q 7. Sxal Ka3 8. Sb3 h2 9. Sc1 etc.

No. 969: W. D. Ellison. The query in Note (i) is a mistake, 3. B any wins of course. A more interesting possibility is 2. .. Bf3 3. Bg6 Be2† 4. Kg2 Bb5 5. Kg3 winning as .. Kf4 is prevented.

No. 977: C. M. Bent. The win is doubtful. 1. Bb3† Kd4 (instead of .. Kb5) 2. Rxh1 Be4† 3. Kg3 Bxh1 4. a6 Sc5 5. a7 Sxb3 6. a8Q Bxd5 7. Qxh8† Kc5 seems a draw thanks to bP.

No. 984: N. Kralin. An excellent puzzle to baffle friends with.

No. 987: A. Bondarev. No win. After 8. .. Qh1† 9. Kh7 Qh2 (instead of 9. .. Qa1† as given in Note ii) seems a simple draw.

No. 988: N. Husainov. Black wins easily by 4. .. Kf8 (instead of .. Kg6) 5. e7† Kxe7 6. Kg7 (else mate in 4) f5† etc. Perhaps the position is still not as intended, see AJR's initial comment.

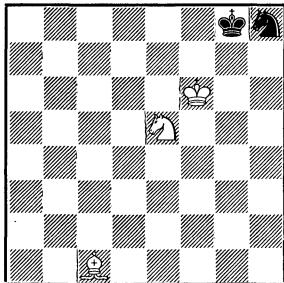

No. 993: V. Palienko. Frankly, just what is there to be commended here? The solution is stock technique which would not extend a good club player in a lightning game. 2. Kd3 is one of many dual possibilities.

No. 995: Y. Rupchev. An old theme. Moreover 6. Kf2 wins as well, for after 6. ... e5 7. a6 e4 8. a7 e3† 9. Kf1 e2† 10. Kxe2 Kg1 11. Qa8 Qh1 12. Qa7† etc. leading to the standard Lolli win.

No. 999: L. Maslanka. In place of 4. h4 wK can tempo, e.g. 4. Kf3 h4 5. Kf2 winning. A remedy is to eliminate wPh3 when the solution becomes 4. Kg3 h4† 5. Kh3 f6 6. e6. One move longer, one piece less, one square more for bQ.

No. 1002: M. Bordenyuk. No win seems possible after 1. ... Bd2 (instead of the extravagant 1. ... Rxf5†) 2. Ra3† Kxh4 3. Sxc2 3. Rxf5† etc.

J. Kling and B. Horwitz
The Chess Player,
3.i.1852 2

No. 1004: I. V. Chuiko. Black wins. 14. ... Bf6 is bad. Instead 14. ... Bd6 15. Kc1 Kc3 16. Kb1 is a position known as a win since Kling and Horwitz (see diagram). The win is not simple however, in the main line the bS is lost not at h8 but at h1: 1. Sd7 Sf7 2. Ba3 Sh8 3. Sf8 Sf7 4. Se6 Sh6 5. Bc1 Sg4† 6. Kf5 Sf2 7. Sc5 Sd1 8. Sa4 Sf2 9. Sb2 Kf7 10. Be3 Sh1 11. Kf4 Kf6 12. Kf3 wins. A full analysis is given in Chéron, No. 1283, where the source is given as Berger and Amelung.

No. 1009: S. G. Belokon. A simple dual win is 4. Bf2 (inter alia).

No. 1016: V. Zaitsev. Worth a mention is the echo variation 2. ... Re5 3. Se2 Sc2 4. Sc1 Se1 5. Se2=.

No. 1020: V. Kamensky. bPd3 should be a wP.

No. 1025: M. Gordman. B1 can draw by 5. ... Kb6. The heavily complex play seems a deliberate style (cf. No. 1023) which can hardly have a wide appeal.

No. 1031: L. F. Topko. In Note (i) after 1. Rg4 Rf5† 2. Kg6 Rf3 3. Bxd6 Rxе3 the clear dual win (mate in 6) is 4. Ra5 Re6† 5. Kf7 Rh6 6. Ra8† Kh7 7. Be5.

No. 1032: L. F. Topko. A bad dual win is 3. Rc8† Kg7 4. Sh5†.

No. 1033: A. A. Tutlaysants. Note (i) is a dual win. Simply 3. e5.

No. 1038: S. Lissy. No win. Better than 2. ... Rb1 is 2. ... Rxf1† 3. Kh2 Ke2! 4. b8Q (4. Bc4† is no better) Rf2† 5. Kh3 Rf3† 6. Qg3 Rxb3!=.

No. 1040: I. Prashcheruk. A dual win despite Note (i) is 1. Ra7 Bg2 2. Se3 Sc6 3. Ra6 Bf3 4. Sf5† (instead of 4. Rb6) Kg6 5. Sd4 Bg2 6. Kc5 etc.

No. 1046: E. L. Pogosjants. A simple dual win, despite Note (ii) is 2. Rxe4† Bg2 3. Rxe2† (in place of 3. Rh4) Kxg2 4. Bf7. A remedy would be to add a bPe6.

Final point: If much above is critical, it is because there is much to be criticised, and I feel that my first duty must be to indicate mistakes. The opinions expressed (with great restraint!) are purely personal, though I would expect them to be widely shared.

UNPINNING in STUDIES

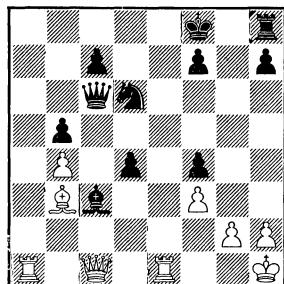

by G. Afanasiev and E. Dvizov (Zhodino, Minsk Region, U.S.S.R.)

In problem composition the theme of unpinning has long received extensive treatment. Likewise in games one comes across examples of unpinning play (1). White has two rooks en prise, but bBc3 is pinned. Unexpectedly there occurred 29. Qxf4! — White unpins the bishop! Alekhine writes: 'In embarking on this sacrificial combination I had to consider the following variations:

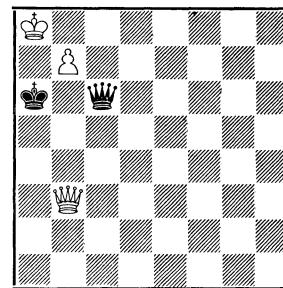

- (i) 29. ... Sc4 30. Bxc4 bc 31. Qe5 Rg8 32. b5 Qb7 33. Qc5† Kg7 34. Qg5† Kf8 35. Qh6† Rg7 36. Qa6 (Unpinning the bRg7. Authors' note) 36. ... Qxa6 37. ba Rg8 38. a7 Kg7 39. Reb1 with 40. Rb8 to follow and White wins.
- (ii) 29. ... Bxa1 30. Qf6 Rg8 31. Bxf7 d3 32. Rxal wins.
- (iii) 29. ... Bxe1 30. Rxe1 Qc3 31. Qe5 Rg8 32. Bd5 with a winning attack.

After Black's actual 29. ... d3, White maintains his advantage with a continuing attack, Black's ingenious attempt at releasing the pin established by 30. Rc1 failing as follows. 30. ... d2 31. Rc2 Qa6 32. Rd1 Bg7 33. Rxe7 and Black resigned. (The game won a Brilliance Prize. AJR)

The 'Chess Dictionary' (Moscow, 1964) gives the definition: 'Unpinning — a tactical device in composition. In 2-ers, and more rarely in 3-ers, it can serve as the basis of a problem theme.' The possibility of unpinning as an independent theme in studies is not considered, although studies whose main content is unpin were being composed even in the 19th century (2). See also (3), though studies with unpinning combinations usually belong to other thematic groups (4). Here White unpins wPd7 by moving his king into a stalemate position. In 'The Soviet Study', 1955, this is classed as a stalemate study. In the present article the authors attempt to present unpinning as a separate study theme. Many composers (Kubbel, Troitzky, Korolkov and so on) have used the king's retreat into a stalemate hole combined with unpinning as a device. Here are some examples from the authors' practice. (5): White unpins wBd5 by slipping his king into stalemate. (6): bQ, on various squares, is faced with defending against mating threats, and resorts to pinning, but wK is able, thanks to stalemate, to unpin.

The following studies show different reasons for unpinning. (7) is a direct unpin of bSe6. (8) combines unpin of bQc6 with mate threats. In (9) wQb7 is directly unpinned. In (10) one wS unpins with tempo (2. Sd4†!) so that the other wS may win. (11) shows alternative unpins of bPd6, once by White (4. Re5† in the note), and once forced on Black (4. ... Kxf4 in main line). In (12) 4. Re2! unpins bQb5 by interposing on the diagonal of wBf1. And in (13) there is another unpin of Black by White, the latter's king interposing on the line of fire of wQe2. Finally, (14) is an unpin of bQb2 combined with domination.

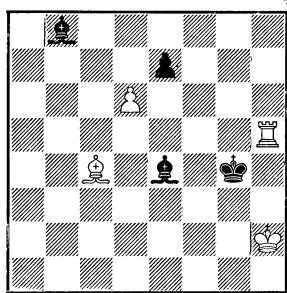

FIDE Album 1962-64 Errors Competition (see EG15, p. 473)

This competition does not seem to have excited much interest. It was won by Holland, with a one-man entry (!) covering all sections, submitted by F. Visbeen. It is not known how many entries there were. J. R. Harman and AJR submitted a joint entry for the studies section. A list of errors claimed (compiled but not verified by the FIDE Problem Commission) may be borrowed from AJR.

Positional draw.

From the foregoing examples it is evident that unpinning combinations are as a rule of interest and do open wide perspectives for originality. The authors propose as a theme unpinning of White or Black, to win or to draw, in the latter case using the motif of positional draw — these are the possibilities. The authors hope to see composers exploring this theme.

† Dr. Alois Wotawa

by Friedrich Chlubna (Vienna)

'Auf Spurensuche mit Schachfiguren' ('On the Trail with the Chessmen') — this is the title of the book in which Dr. Alois Wotawa some years ago published a collection of his best studies. It contains 150 endgames of high quality, and the commentary on the solutions is not only very exact and detailed but also shows the author as a man with a great sense of humour. Now he has closed his eyes for ever: on Sunday, 12.iv.1970, he died, 74 years old, in a Viennese hospital.

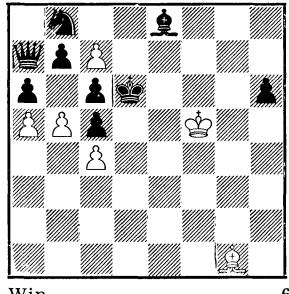

Dr. Wotawa was without any doubt among the greatest artists of end-game composition, representing the same level as Troitzky, Réti and Rincz. From the FIDE he was awarded the title of 'International Master of Chess Composition' in 1966. Therefore you might think he had won many prizes in study tournaments. Did he? Not at all! He was not interested in tourney honours, he did not participate in them, with few exceptions. To understand that you would have to have known him personally!

I was very fortunate to become acquainted with him in 1960; at that time I was fourteen and had just started my career as a problem composer. Here I must state that all problemists in Vienna have regular meetings to show their new works and to have them checked. Dr. Wotawa had always been present, and to these meetings with him I owe my love for studies. Although he was a very well-known and successful public prosecutor, he remained a friendly and ineffably modest man, and it was due to this modesty that he preferred to publish the greatest part of his studies in the 'Deutsche Schachzeitung', where his friend Josef Halumbirek conducted the endgame section for several decades.

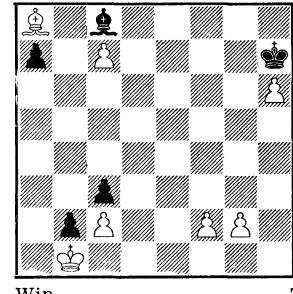

In the summer of 1968 he lost in the first place his friend Halumbirek, and only a few weeks later, quite unexpectedly, his wife died. He never recovered from these cruel blows of destiny. When I visited him at home six months ago, I saw that he was a sick man. His death was a heavy loss for his friends, but no surprise.

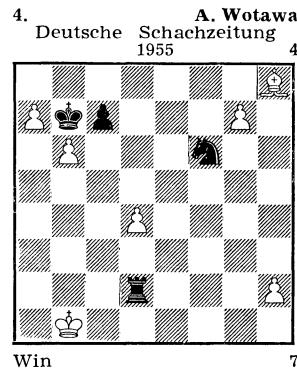

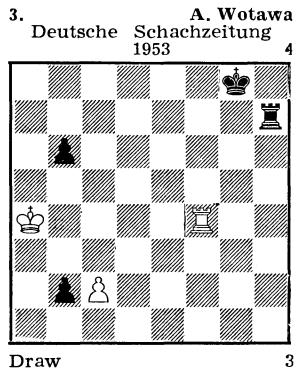

From his rich work (about 300 studies and a few problems which he called modestly 'botched endgames') I have selected six studies showing his admirable art of construction. Dr. Alois Wotawa is dead, but his work will be unforgettable as long as endgame studies survive.

Anagrams. Most people find studies heavy going. Light relief is rare. Harold Lommer has suggested anagrams of the names of composers. There has been some activity on these lines in American and British chess magazines lately, but naturally only relating to players' names. No outstandingly successful anagram has resulted. The anagram should of course be appropriate to the original.
 Lommer's own suggestion:

Harold Lommer = More droll ham.
 He hopes, and so do I, that readers can improve on this! Entries (no prizes) to AJR.

Walter Veitch = Clever wi' that!

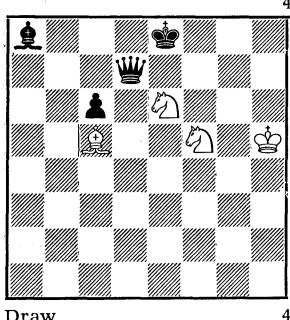

Lommer Jubilee Tourney

The award stands unamended. The First Prize (A. Hildebrand) has an anticipation in one of its lines by Bent (British Chess Magazine, vii.1951), but as this is a partial anticipation only, and as the earlier piece is unsound, no change has been made.

The next group, all from the 1968 Magyar Sakkélet award, were the last studies abstracted by Dr Harold Chan, who has now returned to Kingston, Jamaica. If anyone would like to take over this useful and very necessary task, would they please write to AJR. (In Great Britain only.) The abstractors help, as much as anybody, to ensure that E G appears on time! Dr Chann was always meticulous with abstracting, and E G-readers are probably unaware how much he owes to him.

The following eight studies have been provided, complete with notes (and exclamation marks!) by the noted Belgian composer Mr J. Vandiest. They were prompted by Nos. 940 to 956 and feature different symmetrical and asymmetric effects possible in studies.
We are very grateful to Mr Vandiest for this supplement.

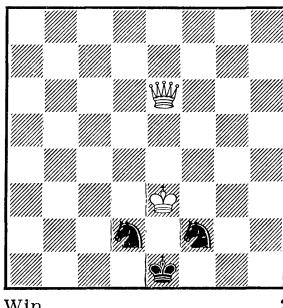

No. 1111: A. Selesniev. 1. Be4! (Preventing both 1. . . Sd3† and 1. . . Sg6†) Sxe6! (Or 1. . . Sh5 2. e7 Sg7 3. Kd4 h3 4. Kc4 Kf4 5. Bc6! Sf5 6. e8Q! Sd6† 7. Kxb4 Sxe8 8. Bxe8 h2 9. Bc6=) 2. Bf5† Kf3! 3. Bxe6! Ke3, and now not 4. Kf6? Kf4 5. Kg6 Kg3 6. Kf5 h3, and 7. Ke4? is impossible (7. . . h2), but 4. Kd6! Kd4 5. Kc6 Kc3 6. Kd5 b3 7. Ke4! b2 8. Ba2=.

This, by the way, completely anticipates Réti's study in Tidskrift för Schack 1923 (wKe5, Be6/bKe3, Pb4, h4).

WV points out that No. 1111 is already twice in EG (EG4, p. 82; EG19 p. 83).

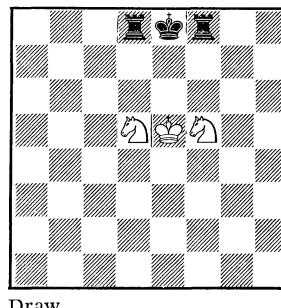

No. 1112: R. Bianchetti. 1. Bb2!, — 1. . . Rf8 2. Rc7†! Kg8 3. Rg7† Kh8 4. Ka2!, winning the bR; — 1. . . Rh6 2. Rg3†! Kh7 3. Rg7† Kh8 4. Kb1!, idem; — 1. . . Rf7 2. Rh3†! Kg8 3. Rh8 mate; — 1. . . Rg6 2. Rc8†! Kh7 3. Rh8 mate. Remarkable!

ii) Completing a symmetrical position which is perhaps amusing. In a former study, I started directly from wKe2, Qe7, Se3/bKe4, Qe5. But studies should resemble studies, not problems. Furthermore, the introduction provides a bonus, for if now 4. .. Kd5?, then 5. Qd7† Ke4

6. Qb7†, winning the bQ; and if 4. . . Kd3?, then 5. Qd7† Ke2 6. Qd2† Kf1 7. Se3† Kg1 8. Qe1† Kh2 9. Qh4† Kg1 10. Qg3†, inflicting the 'standard' mate in the corner.

iii) But not 5. Qd7†? Qd5 6. Qg7† Kd3=. iv) So the bK is lured to the half of the board where he has more space because the wQ is in bad need of it! Without the square g8 being available, there would be no winning manoeuvre left. v) Preventing 11. . . Kf4? 12. Qh4†, winning the Q, as well as 11. . . Kd4? 12. Qe5 mate.

The bK is mated in 3 corners (3rd corner, after 4. . . Kd3? 5. Qd7† Kc2 6. Qd2† Kb1 7. Qb2 mate).

iii) 6. . . Kb6 7. Qc6† Ka5 8. Qc5!, and 9. Bd7† Ka6 10. Bc8† is unanswerable. iv) 10. Bd5†? Ka5 11. Qc5† Ka4=. v) The only move, as it turns out. vi) 14. . . Kd7? 15. Bxh3† Kd8 16. Qd6† Ke8 17. Qd7 mate. vii) Forced: 15. . . Qf4? 16. Qc8† Ke7 17. Qe6† Kd8 18. Qd7 mate, or 15. . . Qd2? 16. Qc8† Ke7 17. Qf8 mate.

viii) Bl. is in Zugzwang: 22. —Q—? 23. Qg7 mate. ix) 'Antidual', as 34. Qf7† Kh6† or 34. Qh7† Kf6† would only draw now.

The bPh3 is not on the board to provide for the rather boring (i). It prevents 14. Bf3† as a winning manoeuvre. (Of course not 14. Be4†? Kd8 15. Bf5 Qg5†=). The move 14. Bf3† would not win because of 14. . . Kd8 15. Bg4 Qh6 16. Qc8† Ke7 17. Qd7† Kf6 18. Qe6† Kg5 19. Qe3† Kg6 20. Qe7 c3! 21. Qe6† Kg5 22. Qe3† Kg6 23. Qe7 h2!, and the square d2 being unavailable, bPh2 cannot be captured with check — securing a draw for Bl.
